THEN I TRIED AA	HANDLING TWELFTH STEP CALLS
Why is AA supreme in rehabilitating alcoholics, when so many other methods fail? For fifteen years I struggled to learn how to drink liquor without getting into trouble, and I failed...but now I know several reasons in answer to that question. Fifteen years ago, I knew I had an alcoholic problem. I did not actually accept the fact, but knew that something should be done about it. My wife and relations, my boss, the neighbors—all were becoming standoffish. Occasionally they flared up over my repeated benders and binges, making my life more miserable with nagging, scolding and the silent treatment. Something should be done, all right. But what? I tried the wagon. After about four weeks of sobriety, I could not eliminate the unbearable obsession to drink from my mind so I tried another solution—talking with a minister. He was very kind and understanding, and suggested that it might help if I joined his church and “got in with the right-thinking and right-living people.” He prayed for me and with me, and I left assured. I joined the church and even was baptized. The treatment worked—for two whole months. Then came the worst drunk I had ever been on, more trouble than I had ever been in, and I ended up in jail this time. I left the church in disgrace, feeling more like a sinner and failure than ever before. I tried another treatment—consulting the doctors. They helped me get off drunks and gave me repeated warnings to stop drinking and to get off to the simple fact that I couldn’t drink. The result? I lost confidence in the doctors and myself—and found myself in the alcoholic wards of hospitals three additional times. Next, I managed to swing the price of a psychiatrist. Every day for sixteen straight months I went to him for analysis. He delved into my past and found out a great many very interesting things. But help me out of my alcoholic problem? When I left him I was in a huff, feeling like a mental case, wishing I was one, and I was drunk. Three methods tried, three methods failed. Hopelessly I progressed alcoholically right down the line.....three years of disaster drinking, flop-houses, failure even at holding down a dishwashing job. My wife left me in desperation seven different times. I lost houses full of furniture three different times. Steadily, I lost confidence, faith and hope. Then I tried AA. Even there I floundered for a while, but then I got the drift and stayed sober. And now I know why AA made my life manageable when every other method failed! Why couldn’t even my family, the clergy and the doctors help, even though they tried very hard? I believe that they actually did not know how to accomplish the result they sought so hard. My family could help me in everyday matters. A clergyman could help me solve my religious problems. The doctors and psychiatrists could treat my physical and mental ills. But none of them was equipped to help the alcoholic when needed, because they lacked the studied knowledge of the many-sided alcoholic problem, which cuts across so many fields. This is by no means any fault of theirs—but they simply in most cases have not been trained to understand the many and complex	“Put yourself in the other person’s shoes”, is a good rule to follow whenever you receive a Twelfth Step call Remember that only complete and utter despair and desperation drives a “candidate” to that final act of surrender—a call to the A.A. Central Office. It’s a cry for help from a sick, frightened human being who has run out of hiding places. How quickly anyone of us responds to this cry could be a matter of life or death. If this sounds over dramatized, it’s only to impress on each and everyone one of us the urgency of fulfilling our obligation and responsibility in carrying the message of sobriety and hope to the alcoholic who still suffers. The whole purpose (besides keeping us sober) when making a Twelfth Step call, is to acquaint the “candidate” with the program of Alcoholics Anonymous. By your own example and by what you say, you can instill the hope that he or she can learn how to get along without drinking and that we have found a way to stay sober. Because no two people you call on will be in the same state physically, emotionally and mentally, sometimes you will have to “play it by ear.” There are no set rules to follow but there are some general ones. We will try and list a few that we think will help you. SOME SUGGESTED GUIDELINES <ul style="list-style-type: none"> *Tell the person about the program; that it leads to a comfortable, happy way to live without drinking.*Tell him or her about the 12 Steps—usually their logic makes a deep impression. *In many cases it has been found helpful to explain the physical allergy to alcohol (the phenomenon of craving); that something went “haywire” with his body chemistry and that he can no longer tolerate alcohol because it sets up a chemical reaction within the body that he/she cannot control, and for this reason we have to stay away from that first drink.*Take a Big Book along and offer to let them borrow it for a time, but keep in mind that some people learn by listening rather than by reading and don’t be disappointed if he doesn’t ask to read the book right away it might be a good idea to make a few calls before taking your “prospect” to their first meeting, but if they are sober and eager it might be good to take them sooner. Again, you will have to play it by ear. *Remember, it was a big step to make the initial call for help, and now that he has made it, he wants to get going. *Mention anonymity...that it is the spiritual foundation of the program, that his name will go no further than within his own Group and the members will respect his anonymity. *If the spouse shows interest, one of the two people making the call should talk to them and explain about the closed meetings and also that they are welcome to attend open meetings and/or Al-Anon. Don’t force this.*It is not a good idea to hand out money. In Chapter 7 the Big Book says, “The men who cry for money and shelter before conquering alcohol, are on the wrong track.” Let your good judgment govern. *On a 12th Step call we try to “carry the message,” which simply means that we try to help a fellow alcoholic on the factors involved in the treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics. And the vast majority can find no time to give special study to the alcoholic disease along with all the other things they must do to keep up with their regular professional life. The real specialist in the field of alcoholic recovery is the AA member who himself has been successfully rehabilitated through the love, service, honest sympathetic understanding, personal help and guidance of another AA member. He knows the treatment—the personal help of other members, the Twelve Suggested Steps, the slogans, the open and closed meetings all devised especially for alcoholics. These specialized techniques have proved successful in case after case. When one AA member carries his message of recovery to another sick alcoholic, there is no need to wonder why AA has experienced the tremendous success that it has.

road to sobriety by showing him or her the way...taking them to meetings...keeping in personal touch. In other words, we lend a helping hand until they are able to stand up for their self. This is a most rewarding expenditure of a little time and effort on our part. *Remember, we are not doctors. No matter how well meaning, we should never give any medication.....If a new-comer's general appearance and actions seem to indicate that all is not well physically, we should make every attempt to get qualified medical help. If you want to prescribe something, we suggest that it be liberal doses of the Big Book, meetings and A.A. Fellowship. *How do you handle the alcoholic who is "rip-roaring drunk"? Again, this is a "play it by ear" situation. This is one of those questions that definitely should be discussed at your meetings on a regular basis. Much depends on the demeanor of the person calling. Are they in danger of hurting their self, what kind of mood are they in, are they just looking for someone to talk to with no real intention of wanting to sober up, are they angry and demanding that Alcoholics Anonymous fix them right now.....the list can go on. We can only say that we must try to help them, even if it's only a phone call telling them to call back after their spree. At least someone from A.A. has made an attempt. Remember, A.A. is for those who want it. "If you have decided that you want what we have and are willing to go to any length to get it," as our Big Book says. Tradition 5 states that "Each Alcoholics Anonymous group ought to be a spiritual entity having but one primary purpose—that of carrying its message to the alcoholic who still suffers. This is the Central Office's primary role: "to carry the message." We do that by trying to provide ways and means for the alcoholic to get to an A.A. meeting and/or A.A. members to get to the alcoholic. Thus comes our Twelfth Step work. In order for us to stay sober and maintain our own sobriety, we must carry the message to others. But how do you, as an AA member do this most vital function? ☞Make sure Central Office has your correct phone number and address. A suffering alcoholic's life could depend on this communication. ☞It is usually considered good practice to have at least two members make the call, possibly one older and one newer member. At least one woman should be along during calls on female prospects, if it all possible. ☞AA members might also be matched up with the prospect as to age or related occupation. Everything helps when trying to establish an area of Fellowship in addition to the common bond of alcoholism. Quite often a new prospect is not entirely convinced of the need for A.A. and anything which assists in overcoming the "you don't understand my problem" attitude can be very helpful. ☞We have found it very helpful for members to read Chapter Seven of the Big Book just prior to making a Twelfth Step call so they are aware of it's suggestions for them. ☞Bring to the meeting tables discussions on Twelfth Step work. How to do it, why we do it, etc.

The more discussion on Twelfth Step work, the better everyone will be prepared when it actually happens. And it will happen!!!
